Friday, February 8, 1860.

The First Committeeman reported to be present at the meeting of reporting details for the 1st March meeting in regard to the lot of land for the Weymouth monument, the gift of Hon. Charles Francis Adams.

Good, it is time something definite was done in this matter.

The Room of the North Cycle Club opened.

The new room of the North Cycle Club of South Weymouth, in the Opera House block, work on which has been going on for the past two weeks, was thrown open to the public last evening.

An elegant room will show to the visitors, quarters which would reflect credit to any club and to the town in which the club is located.

There are two rooms and two one room in the rear, a large room, the other room a billiard room; the other room is 20x30 ft. and is used as a billiard and pool room; the two laboratories are each 20x30 ft. and will be used for bowling and athletic purposes.

The committee on the furnishing completed its work last week in the easier parties of all the members. Through this committee the Hawthorn and Lincos clubs have voted with the North Club, thus making one large club with a membership of about 125.

An elegant room will show to

the visitors, quarters which would reflect

credit to any club and to the town in which

the club is located.

The room is in the rear of the building into the parlor, and in the rear the billiard room. Entrances can also be had from the outside into the basement.

Invitations were sent to the members to be present, but most of them declined to have anything to do with it.

It was a pretty and elegant affair.

The room was filled with the members of the club, and the

The Hours of Representative by a vote of 109 to 90 voted to hold Fast Day.

Candidates for office should read the Town Clerk's notice in another column.

Next Thursday is Washington's birthday. Copy should be sent to this office one day earlier in the week than usual, that we may give our employees a holiday.

The Rotarian Prospect Take a More Weymouth Look.

Dr. W. A. Drisk has been elected a Rotarian Trustee. W. H. St. John, Dr. C. C. Drisk, is now the significant of the future policy of the road in Weymouth. Dr. Drisk's views as to the desirability of an immediate extension of the road to Commercial square, East Weymouth, and through Braintree to Quincy, are well known. Knowing that he holds such decided views in favor of an immediate extension of the road as above, does not his election by the road as a director signify that he is in favor of the same? I am sorry with these lines and am seeking his aid in carrying on the work. But looks, and from information obtained, we have reason to think that the view of the matter is correct.

Christian Endeavor Day at the Congregational Church, East Weymouth.

The services planned by the Y.P.S.C. on the Congregational church, including of Christian Endeavor day, and postponed on account of the snow, were given last Sunday evening. The large audience present testified to the interest the church in the Christian Endeavor movement.

The programme was full of interest throughout, from the organ prelude from Haydn's 6th Symphony rendered by R. F. Maynard to the last strains of the postlude.

The president of the society, Charles A. Cushing, gave an address on the fifth chapter of Matthew, which was followed by prayer by A. W. Hart, and response by a quartette composed of LaForest Linedin, T. H. Emerson, Minot F. Gray and C. W. Bailey. Mr. Randall made a short speech on the subject of Christian Endeavor day, recalling the formation of the first Christian Endeavor society in Weymouth, Portland, and a sketch of the wonderful spirit of the movement and of the large number of societies and members in the United States. Mr. C. W. Bailey, who was followed by Mrs. C. W. Bailey, Mrs. John A. Raymond, "The shadow of the evening home," by Mrs. E. W. Lovell, Mrs. Frank Drew, Mr. Lincoln and Mr. Bailey.

Mrs. Martha J. Hawes' topic was "Our Society the Past Year," who reviewed the work done by the department.

Miss Grace Mitchell spoke on "Christian Endeavor Work in America," of the formation of societies among the Indians, negroes, and of the good work done by footmen.

Mrs. C. D. Canterbury followed with "Endeavor Work in Foreign Lands." Mrs. Canterbury reviewed Dr. Clark's visit to Australia, Japan, India and Turkey, and spoke of the interest shown and sacrificed made by Endeavorers of those countries.

Mr. C. W. Bailey followed with "The Ideal Prayer Meeting" as described by Mr. C. B. Cushing, who was the author of the article.

The work of the Social Committee, by Miss Mary McLean Driscoll, was full of good suggestions for this committee. Miss Driscoll spoke of the greater amount of good that could be accomplished if the atmosphere of the society was bright and cheerful than if it was cold and cheerless.

An excellent paper was the pastor, Rev. Daniel Evans, and his eloquent remarks were a fitting conclusion to the interesting programme.

PATENTS FOR INVENTIONS

PROCUR'D BY THE PRESS CLAIMS COMPANY.

Equal with the interest of those having claims against the Government is that of inventors, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inactivity of the attorneys employed to obtain their rights. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and well-known attorneys to prosecute patent rights. The Press Claims Company has retained counsel expert in patent practice and is therefore prepared to obtain Patents, Conduct Interferences, Make Special Examinations, Prosecute Rejected Cases, Register Trademarks and Copyrights, and Prosecute Patent Infringement.

If you have an invention on hand or a valuable patent, or you are charged with infringement, consult the Press Claims Company.

FARM & GARDEN

DESIRABLE FARM BRIDGES.

Simple Constructions That Are Safe, Convenient and Pleasing in Appearance.

Fortunate is the farm that has a stream or a brook to cross it, for a small mill will not only add greatly to the attractiveness of a place. A large percentage of the farms of the country meets or less frequently, but it will be found to be good hay to feed on. The second reason will easily find a heavy crop of grain or it can be grown to a green state and made into hay. Of late years the letter comes more frequently, and usually to the farmer. It is considered more favorable to the young grain where the grain is not allowed to ripen. I have had good success in sowing rye and rye as soon as the frost has passed, making it ready to lay. The rye is a good grass, but I have always had good success in growing rye. When grass is sown in spring with grain, it is common to sow clover, which usually grows one or two inches high, and is good for the land for a good stand of the other grasses which follow. The nature and manner of growth of clover render it of great value in a system of rotation, and it should never be overlooked if one wishes to have a good and permanent meadow. Timothy and red top are usually sown. From a pick to half a bushel of the former and three pounds of the clear red top to the acre are about the right quantities. I have found rye to be a valuable crop when sown with the other grasses. The orchard grass is a favorite with some farmers. The advantages claimed for it are that it will grow in shaded places, it will fully occupy the ground to which it is sown, and it is not easily killed out. My experience with it has not been satisfactory.

The first illustration shows an under construction in which the center of the bridge is supported by two lateral beams, while power support, arranged in pairs, is very strong.

The next figure shows how the arms arranged above the span, whose power is also great, the support being of the same nature as that shown in the preceding figure, but differently applied.

For the passage of heavy loads, a combination of these two forms will be effective, as shown in Fig. 8, where the upper beams support the middle of the span, and the lower beams support the distance between the middle and the ends. The ends of the struts in such bridges should rest upon well laid rocks to give permanence and stability to the structure. Foot bridges are often needed, are crossed by running water, often necessitating bridges for the passage of farm teams or a foot bridge for the family.

It is unfortunate that so many neglect properly to construct such bridges as are required, for they are often carelessly built affairs that serve to span these streams which may be of great value to the owner.

Well-constructed farm bridges are capable of adding not a little to the attractiveness of a place. Throwing a couple of logs across a stream and covering them with a heterogeneous collection of plants or in many cases with a few stones, does not observe safety, convenience or beauty. The descriptions have reproduced from Country Gentleman show how farm bridges may be constructed simply, but strongly, just enough to give an air of neatness to the work.

The first illustration shows an under construction in which the center of the bridge is supported by two lateral beams, while power support, arranged in pairs, is very strong.

The next figure shows how the arms arranged above the span, whose power is also great, the support being of the same nature as that shown in the preceding figure, but differently applied.

For the passage of heavy loads, a combination of these two forms will be effective, as shown in Fig. 8, where the upper beams support the middle of the span, and the lower beams support the distance between the middle and the ends. The ends of the struts in such bridges should rest upon well laid rocks to give permanence and stability to the structure. Foot bridges are often needed, are crossed by running water, often necessitating bridges for the passage of farm teams or a foot bridge for the family.

It is unfortunate that so many neglect properly to construct such bridges as are required, for they are often carelessly built affairs that serve to span these streams which may be of great value to the owner.

Well-constructed farm bridges are capable of adding not a little to the attractiveness of a place. Throwing a couple of logs across a stream and covering them with a few stones, does not observe safety, convenience or beauty. The descriptions have reproduced from Country Gentleman show how farm bridges may be constructed simply, but strongly, just enough to give an air of neatness to the work.

WEYMOUTH GAZETTE,

Friday, February 22, 1894.

Judge James H. Flirt who is a member of the House Committee on Railways, has been to see the Govt. the past week with the committee and the rapid transit committee looking over the railways of that state. The street railway committee in this year one of the most important committees in the House, there being at the present time many important questions before them.

The Party of Our Water.

Superintendent Eddie is looking after the sanitary condition of the water shed which supplies Fresh Pond with water for the use of the citizens of Weymouth, and has called a hall in making the dumping or burying ground for dead bodies of the deceased in the town. Wednesday he found two horses which had recently been dumped within two hundred and fifty feet of the pond, and learned of another which had been buried within a hundred feet of the pond, and he has ordered these removed at once.

Weymouth water stands at a high grade of purity, but if people living on the water shed have no more of the proprietor of things to do than pollute the water supply, it is a shame to see some morning and evening with an epidemic plague in the village.

Happy the danger is now averted as the intention of the authorities has been drawn to the master and measures will be taken to prevent any future pollution of the watershed.

Independence in Town Politics.

The past week has been one of large development in the political affairs of the town.

We are but one week removed from the time when the town was in a state of alarm when it was to the dishonor of someone in the vicinity of $10,000 of the money of the tax payers.

There are more nominees for the several offices than has been customary in the past.

Willis is believed to be the Weymouth candidate for the state legislature and as a safety valve against a monopoly of office by any one clique or clan, we also believe in sufficient independence on the part of the individual voter to make the best possible selection.

It is to be a question as to which party made the nomination, but is the man equal to the position? Has the candidate sufficient knowledge of the duties required of him and is he a man who will be received in the position should he be elected?

Vote for such men, whatever party they belong to.

Our Power.

Our machinery is now driven by water power. A three-horse power Backus Water motor sets in the cellar and the water is led up to it through a three-inch pipe connecting with the main of the Weymouth system. The motor is at the point of delivery into the motor is at 50 pounds with the gravity service. When the high pressure is on the system is then doubled.

The water enters the motor through a 3.5 inch jet on it is then forced to the top of the tank and the water then falls again through the motor.

The power delivered is ample sufficient to drive our cylinder press, our four job presses and paper cutter at a high rate of speed. It is very convenient, and always ready to apply by simply opening the valve.

There is a small motor in the second story by a long hall that runs through both floors, the papers being on the second floor and the paper cutter on the first floor where we also propose to locate a power folding machine so as early daily to fold the newspapers.

Mr. H. A. Thayer has purchased a house in Weymouth, he who deals in various kinds of motors and machinery and is connected with a large Boston house. Mr. Thayer has shown us every courtesy in the trade and in assisting in setting the new motor and we cordially recommend him to others.

The laying of the pipe and making connections with the motor, as well as providing the drain for waste water was done by Prof. Eliot, who is a man of the world.

The work was done in a most neat and thorough manner and the heat of valves have been made. Mr. Reid also arranged the rod connecting the valves in a very handy way, allowing the power to turn the valves.

The Third Annual Ball of the Hawthorn Club.

The name Hawthorn Club, so familiar to the residents of South Weymouth, has been established, and the members of that club, many of whom have been members since its organization about three years ago, will look back in future years and be able to recall many pleasant incidents.

The members of the club, a few of whom have been married, have their doors and joined hands with the Norfolk Yacht club and from now on there will be but one social organization in South Weymouth. Thus the word is inscribed on the orders, "Hawthorn Club, South Weymouth."

—Mr. and Mrs. Warren T. Simpson spent a few days in town last week.

—Charles Vinson, who has been diagnosed ill with pneumonia, is improving.

—William Nash is reported as more comfortable.

—The crossing of the telephone and electric wires which enter the Fog building at one of the windows of the First National Bank, came very near causing a serious fire last Monday evening about 8:30 o'clock.

—The meeting of the women of the world, work to keep the little home, it came and went attracted the attention of residents on Terrell street, who gave warning to the junior and the blaze was extinguished.

—The only damage done was to the woodwork and that was slight. Had it been later in the evening the blaze would have been much more serious.

—George G. Terrey is able to be about once more after a confinement of two weeks with a lame leg.

—George H. R. Dow, who was confined to the house for a week or more, is able to be about his business.

—The service of the Society given by the Social Circle of the Union church was held in the rectory last Wednesday evening and was taken charge of by Mrs. Forrest Terrey, Mrs. J. A. Fog, who made all the preparations being ill on that Monday. Supper was served at $2.50, about 175 being seated at the tables. The evening was pleasantly spent with games, singing, and social conversation.

—"Jordan's Secret" was given at the Lowell's Comedy Fair at the Opera house, East Weymouth, last Monday evening by the same company that gave it here last December.

—Rev. Mr. Wyman of Aldington preached at the Mission Chapel, Nash's Corner, last Sunday evening.

—Yesterday was Washington's birthday and the scholars enjoyed a holiday. Exercises appropriate to the day were held in all of the schools Wednesday afternoon.

—Another Farmers' Institute of the W. A. and I. Society was held in Engine Hall last Tuesday evening. Prof. James B. Hart, professor of veterinary science at the Massachusetts Agricultural College at Amherst, gave an interesting address on "Horses."

—Grand Master Alonzo A. Cook attended the 75th anniversary of America Lodge, I. O. O. F., last Monday evening, held at the State Hotel, Boston.

—John A. Fog returned home last Saturday evening from a trip in the West about two weeks.

—Mrs. H. R. Reed, J. H. Ewell and E. F. McFie, all of whom have been away for the past few weeks on business trips, returned home last Saturday night.

—Last Sunday, with a great crush, the annual meeting of the W. A. and I. Society was held with great interest.

—The funeral of the late George A. Haden occurred Thursday afternoon at the Adams school on Wednesday afternoon.

"It Takes the Cake."

This cake in every package of IVORINE WASHING POWDER.

Every package of Ivorine that has left our factory since April 1, 1893, has had in it a cake of delightful IVORINE Soap. This soap is made from the best oil and is as soft as satin, and you can have it to return mail, but we prefer that you buy a package of Ivorine from your grocer, and get the soap free.
